REV. JOHN JONES, FIRST MINISTER OF FAIRFIELD,
CONN., 1644-1664.

BY JOHN J. LATHING, of New York.

THE Rev. John Jones was, as his name implies, of Welsh extraction. The families in Wales bearing his patronymic, however, are so numerous that an attempt to trace his pedigree from any published records would seem to be a task almost impossible. He is stated to have been "educated and regularly ordained as a preacher of the Gospel in England," where he married and had several children. What is said, in some accounts, of his being identical with the "Johannes Jones" son of William Jones, of Abergavenny in Monmouth, matriculated at Jesus College, Cambridge, April 30th, 1624, at the age of 17, is now admitted to be entirely erroneous.

As appears from the interesting autobiography of Rev. Thomas Shepard, he came a fellow passenger with him in the ship Defence from London, landing at Boston 3d Oct., 1635. Although neither his name nor that of Shepard appears in the Custom House list of passengers of the vessel, yet this list contains the names of Sarah Jones aged 34, Sarah Jones, 15, John 11, Ruth 7, Theophilus 3, Rebecca 2, and Elizabeth 6 months, undoubtedly his wife and children. Not long after this date, he is found to have penetrated through the then wilderness to Musketaquid, afterwards, Concord, and engaged with the Rev. Peter Bulkley in the work of establishing there the "12th Church of Christ." Edward Johnson in his quaint History of New England or "Wonder Working Providence of Zion's Saviour" describes him as a "Valiant Leader of Christ's Souldiers, a holy man of God," and has left us this sonnet to his worth.

"In Deserts depth where Wolves and Beares abide,
There Jones sits down a wary watch to keepe
O'er Christ's deare flock, who now are wandered wide;
But not from him, whose eyes ne're close in sleepe.
Surely it sutes thy melancholly minde
Thus solitary for to spend thy dayes
Much more thy soule in Christ's Communion finde,
To work for Him, who thee thy pay will raise,
Leading thy son to Land, yet more remote,
To feed his flock upon this Western waist;
Exhort him then Christ's kingdome to promote;
That he with thee of lasting joyes may tast."

To the Concorders Concord proved a barren and unprofitable place. They were severely restricted in their "land grants" by the narrow-mindedness and jealousy of the Government of the "Bay." The people, dissatisfied with the prospect of leaving for more desirable localities, and carried with them the ill reputation of the town. Some years afterwards Richard Crabb and his wife, of Stamford, were brought to trial at Haven before the Court of Magistrates, for the offence of resisting the officers sent to arrest Thomas Marshall, the Quaker, whom he harbored in his house, and for "uttering clamorous and reproachful speeches against the Ministry, Government and Officers." Governor Newman, who presided on this trial, took occasion to cast in the culprit's teeth the report of a discourse he is said to have held with "two men y^t. came fro y^e. Bay." First he asked them, whence they came? They said, from Concord; to which friend Crabb was so unwise as to reply, "y^t. was a beggarly place." They said, it was a good place. He rejoined, "y^t. y^e priest and y^e people y^t. came thence were almost starved." The men replied, they had no priest. To which Crabb, having now, by this admission, the advantage in the argument, remarked "I see you are in darkness, as all the country is."¹

The priest here referred to was, of course, none other than Pastor Jones, who, with his family and little flock of Christ, in the month of September, 1644, reached Fairfield on the pleasant shores of Long Island Sound. Here he labored with assiduity and success for twenty years, organizing and founding the First Congregational Church of that town.

The early records of this church, as well as those of the town having been burnt, or carried off, at the time of the destruction of the Village of Fairfield by Governor Tryon in 1770, we are left without any authentic aids to illustrate the period of his pastorate.

One letter only of Mr. Jones, written by him to Governor John Winthrop, Jr., in the early part of the second year after his arrival at Fairfield, has been preserved,² which would seem to indicate that, at that time, he had not yet fully decided to continue his residence there. This letter is as follows:

To the Worthl Mr. John Winthrope at I equot these present. Leave this letter wth Mr. Hopkins at Hartford to be sent.

John Jones.

¹ To the comprehension of the Puritan Concord men "Priest" signified Papal rule, while to Richard Crabb, the Quaker, it signified to have the true "Light of the spirit," priest, pastor, minister, were one and the same.

In the year 1653, during his ministry, occurred in Fairfield that disgraceful and shameful proceeding—the trial, condemnation, and execution of Goodwife Knapp, for witchcraft, one of the first instances in New England of the tragic results of that superstitious delusion. That both the Pastor and his wife were active participants in this affair, is apparent from the evidence given on the trial of the suit of Thomas Staples against Roger Ludlow, in the following year. Ludlow had reported among other things that Mrs. Knapp, both before and after her condemnation, had charged Goodwife Staples with being a witch, and he, Ludlow, had also further defamed her by charging her with “making a trade of lying.” Hence, the husband, in this suit, sought vindication of his wife’s honor, and pecuniary compensation for his own and her mental sufferings. The proofs produced on this trial, are the only known record of the proceedings in the witchcraft trial.

Mrs. Lucy Pell, wife of Thomas Pell, testified that at Goodwife Knapp’s trial, she was one of the women appointed by the Court to search the victim’s body for witchmarks, and Mistress Jones, the Pastor’s wife, was present, and pressed her to confess whether there were any other witches in Fairfield. On the day succeeding her condemnation, and while she lay in prison, both the Pastor and his wife are found visiting her; it may be, only for her spiritual comfort, but the witnesses say they were continually urging her to confess she was a witch, and thus “make way for the minister to do her good.” Rebecca Hull, the Pastor’s own daughter, in her testimony, gives us a picture of the mournful procession to the place of execution, where Mr. Ludlow and her father are seen walking together by her side, still pressing her to confess she was a witch. To the credit and courage of the poor woman, be it added, she belied not her dignity of womanhood by making any such absurd admission.¹

It is presumed this Mistress Jones was his second wife, Susanna, mentioned in his will, and who survived him. His first wife, Sarah, as well as his son, Theophilus, probably died in Concord. He himself, in 1658, had already attained to such an age as to require an assistant in his pastorate, which the church readily provided. The respect in which he was at this time held by his townsmen and the General Court, may be inferred from the following entry which the court saw fit to make at their session at Hartford, on the 20th of May, of this year: “This Court approving the pious care of the Towne of Fairfield in procuring help for Mr. Joanes by his own consent thereunto, as far as appears by a paper presented by their Deputies to y^e Court, doe order that according to their desires, the afore-said paper be kept amongst the Court papers & desire the Towne not any way thereupon to deprive y^e Rev^d ancient Pastor Mr. Joanes in sickness or health of his comfortable maintenance.”

He died at Fairfield, in the month of January, 1664, and left the following will:

January 17, 1664.

I, John Jones, Pastor of the Church at Fairfield in New England, being weak in body, but of perfect memory, do make and ordain this my last will and testament.—imprimis, I commit my soul into the hands of God, and my body to be buried; and as concerning my worldly goods, I dispose of them as follows:—First, my will is that seven pounds be taken out of my estate which I shall leave behind me, to be delivered to the heirs or executors of Capt. Cullick, sometime one of the magistrates in Connecticut Jurisdiction, being due to him.

¹ It may not be out of place to add that the Court held “that there was no proof that good wife, Staples was a witch,” and Ludlow, the defendant, was ordered to “pay £10 to the husband for his wife’s name, and £5 for his trouble and costs.”

Item, whereas I promised to my dear wife, Susanna Jones, fifty pounds, in case I died before her, and beside gave her a silver bowl within a little while after that I was married unto her, this I do confirm by my last will that they are due unto her:—moreover, my will is that the said Susanna my wife, shall have the use and benefit of my twelve acres of land in the great meadow, and of my orchard in Fairfield, during her life; and after her death that it be divided equally to or amongst my six children, John, Eliphalet, and my four daughters, Sarah Wilson, Widow Ruth James, Rebecca Hull, and Elizabeth Hill.

Item.—I give to my eldest son John, part of my library, to wit, the works of Augustine, Chrisostom, and of other authors (usually called “the Fathers.”)

Item.—I give the rest of my goods undisposed (my debts being paid and funeral discharged) to be equally divided amongst my aforesaid children, John, Eliphalet, Sarah, Ruth, Rebecca and Elizabeth.

In witness whereof, I set my hand and seal the day and year aforesaid.

JOHN JONES. : Seal. :

Postscript.—I make and ordain my wife Susanna Jones, sole executrix of this my Will and Testament, and Mr. Gold and Mr. Pell, both of Fairfield, overseers thereof.

The widow doth accept of the place of an Executrix.

The widow makes oath that this is the last Will of Mr. J. Jones to the best of her knowledge—this 30th June, 1665.

NATHAN GOLD.

Of the children, Sarah married Thomas Bulkley, son of the Revd. Peter Bulkley of Concord. They came with her father to Fairfield, where he died about 1658. By him she had a daughter, Sarah, born at Concord, Aug. 12, 1640. After her first husband's death, she married Anthony Wilson, of Fairfield. He died early in 1662. She subsequently made a will, April 26, 1667, giving lands to her two sons, John and Joseph, besides books and other property; and to her daughters, Sarah, wife of Eleazer Brown, Rebecca, wife of Joseph Whelpley, and Hannah, books and other property.

JOHN JONES, son of the Rev. John Jones, graduated at Harvard College in 1643, in his 19th year. Was admitted freeman at Concord in 1645. He is supposed to be the “son” referred to by Johnson in the verses on his father above quoted, and is believed to have subsequently removed to, and settled in the Island of Nevis, in the West Indies, where he married and died prior to 1673, leaving a son, John, who with his mother, the widow, subsequently returned to New Haven.¹

REBECCA, one of the daughters, married Cornelius Hull, of Fairfield, by whom she had Samuel, Cornelius, and Theophilus, and daughters Rebecca, Sarah, who married Robert Silliman, and Martha, who married Cornelius Liston.

ELIZABETH, another daughter, married William Hill, of Fairfield, and survived her husband, who died in 1684. She had five children, William, Eliphalet, Joseph, John, and Sarah.

RUTH, the other daughter, married — James, but of her or her descendants nothing now is known.

ELIPHALET JONES, youngest son of the Rev. John Jones, was born at Concord, January 11, 1641. Entered Harvard College in 1662, but did not graduate, probably by reason of his father's death in the second year of his course, and of his limited means. In 1669 he is found stationed at Greenwich, in Connecticut, in which year he is admitted to the privileges of a freeman.¹ Whether he was here at this time as a settled minister or not does not clearly appear. In 1672 he was called to Stamford, as colleague or assistant to the Rev. John Bishop of that place. On the 3d of May of that year, the town voted "to give Mr. Jones an invitation to be a minister of the Gospel in this place if he remove from Greenwich." In November of the same year he is "accommodated with a piece of land in his own right, provided he settle here in the work of the ministry," and Mr. Law, Mr. Holly, and Jonathan Sellick are chosen to treat with the Greenwich men "about their compliance with Stamford, for the upholding of the ministry in this place." The town subsequently exchanged the above "piece of land," which was "on the west side of the Southfield," for the more eligible tract on the beautiful headland fronting and overlooking Long Island Sound, now owned and occupied by Capt. B. L. Waite, and the Brothers Alfred and Benjamin Scofield. This was the same field which the Sagamores reserved for their planting ground when making the original grant for the town in 1640, but which also was subsequently surrendered by them to the town. It was now (1672) voted that "Mr. Jones shall have that piece of land at Wescus which was improved by the Engins in case it be cleared from all English and Engins and this land to be Mr. Jones' proper right in lue of that piece of land granted to him on the west side of the southfield." While residing here he also preached at Rye from time to time. The General Court of Connecticut sitting at Hartford, May 14, 1674, made the following order: "This Court desires Mr. Eliphalet Joanes to take the paynes to despence the word of God to the people of Rye once a fortnight on the Lord's Day till the Court, October next and then this Court will take further order concerning them and for Mr. Jones's satisfaction."² He must have been popular as a minister at this period. As early as 1669, the year of his commencement in the ministry at Greenwich, the people of Jamaica, L. I., voted to send a messenger to invite him to visit them with a view to a settlement, but it appears he declined going. In 1675, on an invitation from the people of Huntington, L. I., he visited them, and in January following he was desired to "Continue among them as their minister, and they voted to give him twenty acres of land where he chose to select it. He appears not to have permanently settled there however, until 1677, when he was formally ordained as the successor of the Rev. William Leverich, over the First Presbyterian Church at that place. Here he continued for over half a century. He is described as "a man of great purity and simplicity of manners, and a faithful and successful preacher."

Not until he had attained his 78th year, did he have the aid of an assistant. At that time Mr. Ebenezer Prime, then a young man, ancestor of our well-known and very worthy fellow-citizens, the Revs. Samuel I. and Edward D. G. Prime, and of Wm. C. Prime, Esq., was engaged in that capacity, and four years afterwards, in 1723, was ordained as colleague: on which occasion Mr. Jones, then in his 82d year, presided at the ordaining council, and delivered the pastoral charge. He lived to the age of 91 years and died in Huntington, June 5, 1731. He never married, and what estate he had he bequeathed to his sister's son, Eliphalet Hill, his namesake, who, in his declining years, took care of him and managed his affairs.

At the easterly end of the main street in the now peaceful village of Huntington, rises an eminence which overlooks the town and the beautiful harbor and the country for miles around. This the early settlers had set apart and consecrated for the sepulchres of their dead; and here they buried their Pastor. But here, fifty years afterwards, came Col. Benjamin Thompson, Count Rumford, with his vandal troops, and demolished the church, and with its timbers erected block houses and barracks over the graves which he levelled for the purpose, using the tombstones for building their fire-places and ovens. One veritable chronicler tells us how he had heard from the lips of living witnesses that they had seen these soldiers draw their loaves of bread from these ovens, having the reversed inscriptions of the tombstones of their friends on the lower crust! But "the whirligig of Time brought about its revenges:" the Briton with his minions of outrage passed away, and the Peace of Desolation settled over the sacred enclosure.

When a full century had elapsed, and the ashes of the aged minister had reposed so long beneath the sod, that the place of their interment had been utterly forgotten, or all mementos of it entirely obliterated by these ravages of war, the people of another generation—the descendants of the sires to whom he had so long and faithfully dispensed the Word of God—still cherishing and reviving the memory and tradition of his virtues, erected a plain but decent cenotaph in remembrance of him, in this their public burial ground. The stone bears the following inscription: "In Memory of Rev. Eliphalet Jones who was the only settled Minister in Huntington, from 1676 to 1723. He was born in Concord, Massachusetts, and died between 1730 and 1740, near 100 years old."

He deserved a better monument, and one with a more fitting and correct inscription.

BRIEF NOTES OF THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE DEWEY
FAMILY IN AMERICA.

BY BENJAMIN W. DWIGHT, of Clinton, N. Y.

THE facts here detailed were gathered, many of them, by the writer, when engaged in investigating the history of The Strong Family, at various points in New England, and especially at Northampton and Westfield, Mass., as well as at Lebanon, Ct. Other associated items have been accumulated at different times through several years past from a variety of sources.

THOMAS DEWEY, the Settler (spelled also in the Dorchester records, Duee), came to Dorchester, Mass., in 1633, from Sandwich, Kent, England, near the ancient town of Dover, and was enrolled as a freeman there, May 14, 1634. He removed about 1638 to Windsor, Ct., and m. there, March 22, 1638-9, widow Frances Clarke, by whom he had 5 children. He was cornet of the town troop of soldiers. He d. at Windsor, April 27, 1648. He was frequently juror and deputy to the General Court. His widow m. for a 3d husband, Nov. 30, 1648, George Phelps, and soon afterwards removed to Westfield, Mass., with all the Dewey children except Israel, who remained in Windsor and d. there at an advanced age, leaving no issue. Thomas Dewey and all his descendants for several generations are believed to have been farmers. [The first husband of Mrs. Frances Dewey was Joseph Clarke. Their daughter, Mary Clarke, was the first wife of John Strong, Jr., of Windsor, son of Elder John Strong of Northampton. See Hist. Strong Family by the writer, p. 20. Mrs. Frances (Dewey) Phelps had a son, Jacob Phelps, b. about 1650, who m. May 2, 1672, Dorothy Ingersoll, b. in 1654, dau. of John Ingersoll, of Hartford, Ct., and afterwards of Northampton, Mass., and Dorothy Lord, dau. of Thomas Lord of Hartford. They had 6 children. 1. In the library of Mr. John C. Cruger, of Cruger's Island, Dutchess County, New York, is the ancient Dutch family Bible of JOHN CRUGER, the first of the name in New York. It was printed in Dordrecht (or Dort) in 1688. The record is in Dutch down to the year 1728, and after that in English. The following translation of the Dutch portion is accurate, and the whole has been carefully copied. The arms are from an ancient iron seal, now in the possession of Mr. John C. Cruger, which belonged to John Cruger, and has always been kept with the Bible from which the record is taken.

JOHN CRUGER.

JOHN CRUGER came from Germany to America previous to the year 1700, and resided in the City of New York. An old record in the possession of Mr. John C. Cruger, of Cruger's Island, says: "From the traditional account in the family and from the coat of arms which he brought with him it is supposed he was descended from the family of Baron von Cruger. The name of that family was always spelt with a C, whilst that of the commonalty in Germany is spelt with a K." The name itself in its origin is a corruption, undoubtedly, of the Latin Cruciger, or cross-bearer.

He was a merchant, a high-toned gentleman, and a prominent citizen of New York during the first half of the eighteenth century. He was elected Alderman of the Dock Ward in 1712, and held the office till 1733 inclusive, the long period of twenty-two years. In 1739 he became Mayor of the City, and remained in office till his death on 13th August, 1744.

He married in 1702 Maria Cuyler, eldest daughter of Hendrick Cuyler of Albany, the first of that name in America, and Anna his wife, and had three sons, Henry, and John and Tileman. TILEMAN died a young man, and unmarried.

JOHN, the youngest son, who never married, was, like his father, eminent as a merchant, and in political life. He was elected Alderman in 1754 and 1755. The next year, 1756, he was elected Mayor of New York, and held the office for ten years till 1766. In 1759 he was elected a representative in the Assembly, and remained a member till the termination of the English rule in 1775, the long period of seventeen years. In 1769, in a closely contested election, he was chosen Speaker over William Livingston, the candidate of the Presbyterian party, afterwards Governor of New Jersey, and filled the same office in all succeeding Assemblies to the Revolution. From this fact he was always known in New York until his death, which took place at Kinderhook in 1792, as "The Old Speaker." When the stamp act troubles occurred, John Cruger was chosen a delegate to the famous Congress of 1765, with Messrs. Bayard and Lispenard. He took a prominent part in the proceedings, and wrote the "Declaration of Rights and Grievances," issued by that body. He was likewise the first President of the Chamber of Commerce of New York; and is the signer of the above record.

HENRY CRUGER, the eldest of the two surviving sons of John Cruger the first, who was born 25th November, 1707, in New York, resided for many years in that city, and was also in political life. He was a member of the Assembly from 1745 to 1759, fourteen years, and subsequently was appointed to the Council of the Province, and served till 1773 when he resigned, and was succeeded by his eldest son, John Harris Cruger. In May, 1775, his health being impaired, he went to England and resided at Bristol with his second son, Henry, then Member of Parliament for that City. He died there in 1778, and lies buried in the centre aisle of Bristol Cathedral. He married for his first wife on 28th September, 1734, a lady of Jamaica, the widow of Patrick Montgomery of that Island, whose maiden name was Sloughter or Slaughter, but she died without children. His second wife was a Miss Harris of the same Island, by whom he had four sons and two daughters.

Wm. King

1. JOHN HARRIS CRUGER, m. 25 Nov., 1762, Anne de Lancey, eldest dau. of Brig.-Gen. Oliver de Lancey, of New York.
2. HENRY CRUGER, m. Miss Peach, daughter of Samuel Peach the great Banker of Bristol, England. 2. Caroline Elizabeth Blair of England.
3. TILEMAN, m. — of Curacoa.
4. NICHOLAS, m. 1. Antie de Nully, dau. of Auguste, Compte de Nully, of Santa Cruz. 2. Anne Markoe, dau. Isaac Markoe of Santa Cruz.
5. MARY, m. Jacob Walton, of New York.
6. ELIZABETH, m. Peter van Schaack, of Kinderhook.

JOHN HARRIS CRUGER, the eldest son, succeeded his father in 1773 as one of the Governor's Council, and was also Chamberlain of the City of New York, and in office at the breaking out of hostilities three years later. When the Provincial Brigade "De Lancey's Battalions" was raised in 1776, under Oliver de Lancey as Brigadier General, "for the defence of Long Island, and other exigencies," he was commissioned Lieut.-Colonel of the 1st battalion or regiment, General de Lancey himself being the Colonel. He was very distinguished as an officer, on Long Island, at Savannah, Charleston, and Camden, brilliantly and successfully defended Fort Ninety-six in South Carolina, against Gen. Nathaniel Greene, who was compelled to raise the siege, and by his coolness and steadiness turned the fortunes of the day in favor of the British at Eutaw Springs.

After the war he went to England, and resided at Beverley, in Yorkshire, where he died. He had no issue.

HENRY CRUGER, the second son, educated at King's College, N. Y., was in 1757 sent by his father to Bristol, England, to enter a counting house. He became a successful and popular merchant of that city, which he made his home. In 1774 he and Edmund Burke were nominated for Members of Parliament for Bristol, and after a sharp contest elected. He was also once Sheriff of Bristol, and in 1781 was elected its Mayor. In 1784 he was again elected to Parliament. In 1790 he declined a re-election, having determined to return to America and reside there for the rest of his life, and in the same year came back with his family to his native city. Here he soon became engaged in politics, and notwithstanding his service in Parliament, and especially his re-election in 1784, after the peace of 1783, and subsequent service of about six years, he was, in 1792, elected a Senator of the State of New York, and served as such. His residence during the latter part of his life was at 382 Greenwich St., New York, where he died the 24th of April, 1827, aged 88 years.

His first wife was Miss Peach, daughter of Samuel Peach the great Banker of Bristol, by whom he had one child, Samuel Peach Cruger, who subsequently took the surname of Peach, and was the late Samuel Peach of Tockington House, Gloucester, in England, who married a daughter of William Miles, of Leigh Court, near Bristol. They had one child, Emma

Sarah, who married in 1820 Lord John Murray-Aynsley, a grandson of John Murray, third Duke of Athol, and their issue were :

1. CHARLES MURRAY, b. 1821.
2. JAMES MURRAY, b. 1823.
3. JOHN CRUGER MURRAY, b. 1825.
4. GEORGE HERBERT MURRAY, b. 1826.
5. HUGH PERCY MURRAY, b. 1828.
6. EMMA ATHOL MURRAY, b. 1843.

The second wife of Henry Cruger was Miss Caroline Elizabeth Blair, and their issue were,

1. HENRY H. CRUGER, m. Mary, dau. of Nicholas Cruger, his first cousin.
2. CORDELIA, m. John H. Bailey, of N. Y.
3. LOUISA, d. unm. in 1853.
4. MATHILDA, m. Thomas J. Oakley, late Judge of the Superior Court of New York.
5. WILLIAM CRUGER.
6. JOHN, who was the father of John Peach Cruger, of Crugers, Westchester County, N. Y.

Tilman Cruger, the third son, was a West India merchant, married a lady of the Island of Curacoa and resided there. He had a son, Henry, and other children.

Nicholas Cruger, the fourth and youngest son, was also a West India merchant in extensive business at Santa Cruz, and it was in his counting-house there, that the relatives of the mother of Alexander Hamilton, the daughter of a French physician of the Island of Nevis, named Fancette, who were residents of Santa Cruz, placed her son as a clerk. Cruger liked the youth, and chiefly through his influence and advice, he was subsequently sent to New York, and thus enabled to enter upon the great career which he afterwards ran. Nicholas Cruger, unlike his brother, leaned to the American side at the time of the Revolution, and became a great friend and admirer of Washington, whom he accompanied in his final triumphant entry into New York on Nov. 25th, 1783. On one of his voyages to Santa Cruz the vessel was captured by a British man-of-war. The captain asked him his name; on hearing it, he at once enquired if he was any relation to Col. Cruger of the British army at the South. "He is my brother," said Cruger. "Why," exclaimed the captain, "I am carrying to Halifax the despatches to Government with the account of his great success in Carolina," and then told him of the Colonel's brave and successful defence of Fort Ninety-six.

Taken again on another voyage to Santa Cruz, the captors found among his effects a portrait of Washington. On opening the box, the officer exclaimed, "Who have we here?" And instantly recognizing the portrait, continued, "Oh, its the Pretender, I perceive." The vessel was sent into New York, condemned, and Cruger kept a prisoner on parole. His captivity was not very severe, as he was permitted to reside with the relatives of his brother-in-law, Walton, at the Walton House.

Nicholas Cruger married first, Ann, daughter of Comte de Nully, of Santa Cruz, whose mother, a lady of Dutch extraction, was named Heyliger. By her (who died at Santa Cruz in 1784) he had issue :

John Harris Cruger in my own, Valentine's Manual, the Journals of the Assembly, and Council, of the Province of New York, the Life of Peter van Schaak, Henry C. van Schaak's address before the N. Y. Hist. Soc. on Henry Cruger of Bristol, Burke's Peerage, Burke's Landed Gentry, and some verbal communications from Mr. John C. Cruger and Mr. William Betts, are the authorities consulted in preparing the biographical portions of the above record.

The accompanying portrait of John Cruger is from an original miniature, in the possession of Miss Anna Carolina Cruger, of New York, enlarged by Thomas Hicks, the artist, for the very valuable work of Mr. John Austin Stevens on the Chamber of Commerce of New York, to whose personal kindness, and the courtesy of the N. Y. Historical Society, to which he has presented the plate, I am indebted for its use.

RECORDS OF THE SOCIETY OF FRIENDS OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK AND VICINITY.

Communicated by ABRAHAM S. UNDERHILL, of New York,

MARRIAGES

[The original records of all these marriages are copies of the marriage certificates, and to each certificate are appended the names of the witnesses present at the ceremony. As these names are, in most instances, very numerous, generally comprising all members of the Society present at the meeting, and are thus necessarily merely repetitions of the names of the same persons, the Publication Committee have concluded to omit them. The full transcript is in the hands of the Committee, and open to the inspection of any one desiring to examine or copy the names.]

NOTES AND QUERIES.

CRABB, RICHARD—Was of Stamford, Conn., 1641-1658. Who was his wife? On his trial before the Court of Magistrates, at New Haven, May 28th, 1658, he testified that "she was a well-bred woman in England, a zealous professor from her childhood, almost beyond example." (New Haven Col. Records, vol. ii., p. 246). In a petition of Robert Coe, of Jamaica, dated May 9, 1661, preserved among the Dutch MSS. in the Secretary of State's Office at Albany, vol. ix., p. 600, he refers to Richard Crabbe as his "brother-in-law." Crabb was presumably at this date a resident of Oyster Bay, L. I., where he married for his second wife, Alice the widow of Peter Wright. He died there on the 6th of April, 1680. J. J. L.

DE SILLE.—Vol. vi., p. 54.—In reply to enquiries about Nicasius de Sille, I would state that de Sille had children, Laurence, born in Holland, and married a daughter of Capt. Martin Cregier; Gerdientje, who married Jan Gerritse Van Coüwenhoven, the ancestor of the Brooklyn and New Utrecht branches of the Coüwenhoven family, among whom the name of Nicholas abounds to this day; and Anna, who married, Feb. 29, 1660 (see N. V. Dutch ch. rec.), Hendrick Kip.

The Walbrûg de Sille who married Frans Cregier was probably a relative of NICASIÛS, but I have seen no evidence of her being his daughter. On the marriage record she is entered as from Mestricht, while Anna, who was married the same day, is entered from Van Wyck.

The Coûwenhovens of New Utrecht had some years ago a portrait of de Sille, which unfortunately through carelessness was destroyed by the children of the family. T. G. B.

GRIMALDI.—The slightest information of a family bearing this name, who went from Genoa before the Revolution to Savannah, Georgia, will be very thankfully received by the undersigned. This family were at one time Dukes of Genoa and Counts of Beaufort.

WILLIAM JOHN POTTS, Camden, New Jersey.

HALLETT, LYDIA.—What was the maiden name of the wife of Joseph Hallett, and who were her parents? Her husband was born at Hallett's Point, August 14, 1714, and died at same place December 14, 1731, aged 27; having issue by his wife Lydia, one son and one daughter.

1st. Joseph (merchant, a prominent member of the N. Y. Committees of Safety, of the first State Congresses, active in procuring arms and ammunition for the army at the opening of the Revolution, of large wealth), born Jan. 20, 1731, died August 9, 1799.

2d. Lydia, born 1732, soon after her father's death; died 26th Feb., 1812 (buried at Sunswick, Newtown, Blackwell reserved burial ground). She married, Feb. 19, 1755, her cousin Colonel Jacob Blackwell, by whom she left issue.

Letters of administration were granted on the estate of the above Joseph (who died 1731), Vol. 11 of wills, p. 205, to Richard Alsop of Newtown, and therein the widow Lydia is frequently named. The inventory is made by Jacob Blackwell and Thomas Alsop.

M. L. D.

HAZARD.—Mrs. Nathaniel Hazard, born Elizabeth Drummond. Who were the parents of Mrs. Elizabeth Hazard? Her husband Nathaniel Hazard died at his house in Hanover Square, N. Y. City, January, 1765, and left a numerous progeny. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Drummond; she died at the house of her daughter Mrs. Joseph Hallett, 229 Duane St., N. Y. City, May 27, 1811, aged 98. Tradition says that she was born in Scotland and passed most of her youth in France. Only by a long residence in France could she have acquired the thorough knowledge of French which she possessed, and correct pronunciation as rare then as now with the English speaking races. Dutch and English were equally familiar, whether she understood Scotch, the writer has not learned. Her knowledge of the Bible and Biblical History were very remarkable, in argument she was wont to illustrate such subjects with quotations and references, references often drawn from works not easily attainable in this country. For this knowledge, for the information she could impart and for her piety, her society was sought by the clergy of this and neighboring cities, including members of other besides her own (Presbyterian) denomination.

Tradition names Scotland as her birth-place, and the date is fixed, by the record of her death, at 1713. On the other hand it is found that Ann, wife of Robert Drummond (a vintner) was confined in 1713 in New York City.

May 30, 1716, Robert and Ann Drummond (he a vintner), residing in Elizabethtown, N. J., applied in this city for letters of administration on the estate of Monteth Noell, said Ann Drummond having formerly been the wife of Richard Hall, who in his lifetime was brother to Monteth Noell by the mother's side. It further appears that by her former husband the said Ann had two children, Elizabeth and Ann.

It is now claimed notwithstanding the assertion of those now living who know Mrs. Nathaniel Hazard, that she was the daughter of Robert and Ann Drummond; but is it likely that having one daughter living (by her first husband Hall) named Elizabeth, a daughter by Mrs. Drummond's second husband would also be called Elizabeth. Mrs. Hazard's descendants are so numerous that we may hope extended inquiry will clear up the disputed question of her birth, the true facts must be known by some of them.

ODELL.—William Odell, supposed to be a descendant of the English family of Odell mentioned in Burke's "Landed Gentry," in 1639, came from England to Concord, Mass., where he was probably a member of the congregation of the Rev. Peter Bulkley, who was born in the parish of Odell, Bedford Co., England. In 1644, Mr. Odell removed to Fairfield, Conn., and his son William became one of the principal proprietors of Rye, New York.

The undersigned will be happy to correspond with those interested, with a view to confirming the probable relation-ship between the English and American families; and also with reference to the preparation of a genealogy of the family.

EUGENE ODFELL,

Westchester Co., New York.

SCULL.—John Scull, Long Island, 1695. Information is desired of John Scull, who, with Jonas Valentine, John Somers, Jonathan Adams and Peter Covenhoven, all described as whalem from Long Island, bought land of Thomas Budd on Great Egg Harbor, New Jersey, in 1695.

WILLIAM JOHN POTTS, Camden, New Jersey.

WESSELLS.—Were Evert Wessells, cooper, will proved 1694, Laurens Wessells, will proved 1724, and Frans Wessells, will proved 1734, the children of Wessel Evertsen, who had children Evert, Laurens, Frans, etc.?

What was the date of birth or baptism of Johannes, one of the sons of Laurens? Did Jan or John Wessells, supposed to be a brother of the above, marry, and whom? Did he have any children, and what were their names and dates of birth?

T. M. P.

WILLETT.—Do New York records show any family connection between the Thomas Willett from Bristol, England, m. in the Dutch Church, Sept. 1, 1643, to Sarah Cornell, of Essex, England (see RECORD for January, 1875, p. 35), and Thomas Willett, first Mayor of New York under the English? If so, the combined facts may help to find the English pedigree.

OBITUARY.

ASPINWALL.—William H. Aspinwall died at his house, No. 33 University Place, New York, on Tuesday, January 19, 1875, in the 67th year of his age. He was the son of the late John Aspinwall, a well-known merchant of New York. His family, however, is a New England one. He was for many years a partner with William E. Howland in the house of Howland and Aspinwall, which succeeded that of the elder Howlands. He took much interest in the establishment of steam communication with San Francisco, and the success of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. and of the Panama Railroad is largely due to his exertions. The eastern terminus of the road was named after him in acknowledgment of the zeal and ability which he displayed. He leaves two sons, Lloyd Aspinwall, who succeeded him in the firm, and the Rev. John A. Aspinwall, Rector of Christ Church, Bay Ridge, Long Island. His three daughters married James Renwick, John W. Minturn and Ambrose C. Kingsland, Jr.

DELAFIELD.—Joseph, Henry and Edward Delafield were the three surviving children of John Delafield, the head of an ancient English family, who settled in New York towards the end of the last century. By his intermarriage with Ann, daughter of Joseph Hallett, of Hallett's Cove, now Astoria, Queens Co., N. Y., Mr. Delafield was the father of a numerous family, of whom seven sons and three daughters grew up. The eldest son John married in England Mary, daughter and heiress of John Roberts of Whitechurch, Co. Bucks. The only issue of this marriage, according to Burke, was a daughter, Mary Ann. He married secondly, in New York, Elizabeth Tallmadge, and had issue, John, who settled in Geneva, New York, and Mary, married to Bishop Neely of Maine. The second son Joseph married Julia, daughter of Maturin Livingston and granddaughter of the late Governor Morgan Lewis. His children were Maturin and Lewis, the latter of whom married a daughter of the late Francis R. Tillou. The third and fourth sons, William and Henry, were twins. William was not married. Henry married, late in life, Mary, daughter of Judge Munson. She died before him, leaving two daughters. Edward married 1st, October 12, 1821, Miss Elinor E. Langdon Elwyn, dau. of Thomas Langdon Elwyn, Esq., of Portsmouth, N. H., and 2d, January 31, 1839, Julia Floyd, dau. of Col. Nicoll Floyd, of Mastic, L. I., by whom he had issue, with others, Francis, who married Katharine, daughter of the late Henry Van Rensselaer, by his intermarriage with Mary, daughter of the Hon. John A. King, Governor of New York from 1856 to 1858. Richard, the sixth son, married a lady from Old Point Comfort, Virginia. Rufus King, the youngest son, married Eliza, daughter of William Bard, formerly of Hyde Park, New York, by his intermarriage with Katharine, daughter, of Nicholas Cruger of St. Croix, W. I., the owner of Rose Hill, New York. He had issue, with others, Edward, who married a daughter of Frederic Schuchardt. The daughters of John Delafield, Ann and Emma, died unmarried. Susan married the late Henry Parish, of New York.

JOSEPH DELAFIELD graduated at Yale College in 1808, and studied law in the office of Josiah Ogden Hoffman, whose partner he afterwards became. At the beginning of the war of 1812, he raised a regiment, the 46th, in which he held a major's commission. His regiment was stationed during the war at Governor's Island, in the harbor of New York. He was afterwards appointed commissioner on the part of the United States to settle the northern boundary.
